SEC. NEW LENOX INC. COMMITTEE GIVES STATEMENT

In an interview with Harvey J. Frick, secretary of the New Lenox Incorporation Committee, the former gave The News-Bulletin the following statement on why he favors the incorporation of New Lenox:

"Why I Am Interested In Incorporation."

"Recently some one asked me, 'Why are you so interested in incorporation?' The question struck me rather by surprise as I hadn't given that much thought."

"I was born and raised in an incorporated town so it just seemed natural to be for it. Anyway I was put on the Incorporation Committee as secretary to do good job which I have been trying to do. There has been a lot of work involved in getting this election set up for May 25th, but I have enjoyed it. I have been more than pleased with the fine cooperation that everyone has given me. I have respected the other man's views and he has likewise respected mine."

"I believe in putting up an honest case and then on election day we all have the right to express our views. I have not been doing this work with the idea of becoming an office holder. I am not interested in an office, however, I do hope that others will take hold where we leave off if the election carries, and it does look very promising."

"My BIG interest has been street lights. Street lights have always seemed the natural thing to me. I am going back now about 40 years. I was born in a corner house at Mokena and as far back as I can remember Mokena had street lights. I remember the light shining in our living room and a good many times remember my mother going out and having a long chat with Oscar Klose, the local policeman and also lamp lighter."

"He used to go around town in the early evening and light the gasoline lights with a low torch. On our corner there was a light that was let down by a long wire or chain and looked similar to present electric light. However, some of the back streets had only lamp posts with lights on them. We had that sort of light until I was about 11 years old. About that time the more modern age started to creep-up on us."

"Electricity started to come and some of Mokena's citizens were interested in it. But Mokena's Board was filled with a lot of old timers and so the battle was on. Tinley Park had its own light plant and the old Board wanted to get one for Mokena. This of course stirred up opposition from those who wanted direct connection with the Public Service."

"I still remember the discussions at home with the results that my Dad and some others got on the more modern ticket and were carried into office with the results that Mokena got its electric street lights. That is my big reason for my interest."

"It seems rather odd that 36 years later I should be working toward the same thing my Dad did—electric street lights, however, I am, and I'm proud of it, and I hope each and everyone of you will give this serious consideration."

"Incorporation seems to be the only way for New Lenox to get street lights and I believe its good insurance protection for our children at night—they need that protection. Let's get it for them by voting for incorporation May the 25th."

"HARVEY J. FRICK, Secretary Incorporation Committee."

FRESH FRUIT

We are wondering if the public has forgotten we handle fresh fruit?

We weren't living in Tinley last year, but did serve most of our customers. This year we will strive to help and satisfy all who wish to patronize us.

The OPA has lifted all ceiling prices on fresh fruit and berries, therefore in all probability, they will remain high unless a bumper crop floods the market.

It won't be long until strawberry canning. If you are interested in the best, freshest and most reasonable for the quality, why not give us a ring and leave an order?

We will handle berries, peaches, apples, pears, plums, cherries and potatoes. We handle this for a profit, that's our business. However we don't intend to hold you up. We would like to give you what you want, when you want it at a price satisfactory to both.

We live 1 block west of 424 on Sayre Ave. at 17805. Telephone is 334. If we haven't what you want give us a chance and will do our best.

Hoping to please and serve you.

Sincerely,

MR. and MRS. RAY CALLAHAN

Worth Citizens Pledge $7,000 For New Church

Approximately $7000 has been pledged by residents of Worth to rebuild the 63 year old Community Methodist church which burned recently. The loss was estimated at $18,000. Even before a campaign committee was formed, the Rev. George F. Courrier, pastor, said several Worth residents, including non members, pledged financial support to rebuild the landmark.

Among the largest contributors was Lewis J. Macauley, treasurer of the church board, with a pledge of $1000. Macauley, a well driller in the community of 700 persons, is also president of the Worth school board and a director of the Orland State bank.

The Rev. Mr. Courrier said he hopes to raise $50,000 to erect a brick and stone church, larger than the white frame landmark which was destroyed. Fire was attributed to crossed wires or a congested flue. The building fund will be raised by subscription and benefit events, the Rev. Mr. Courrier said.

The church was consecrated in 1883 on land deeded to the Methodist conference by Wales Taoby, one of the pioneer settlers of the community. Membership then numbering 25 families, has increased to 300 families today. The old church had a seating capacity of 2,000. Firemen were able to save the bell which has called worshippers to Sunday service for years in the community.

Volunteers, including members of the Mays Meyers Legion post, of which Wm. Little is commander, will help clear the debris from the church property. The Rev. Mr. Courrier, formerly associate pastor of St. James Methodist church, 46th St. and Ellis Ave., has been pastor of the church since July.

Hold Bowling Banquet At Schrage's

A wonderful time was had by those present at the annual bowling dinner of the New Lenox Women's Bowling League at Schrage's Inn, on Wednesday evening May 8. A gift was presented to each of the members who had perfect attendance for the season. They were: Mesdames Butzen, Gilgen, Anderson, Stevenson and Rowsell. There was also a scrambled word contest representing occupations and professions. It resulted in a tie between Iva Bright and Ann Krog. They therefore drew for the prize and lucky Ann Krog won.

Everyone was made happy when Naomi Butzen distributed the prize money. Thereupon Helen Troughton representing the league presented Lucille Stephenson, chairlady, with a going away gift, consisting of a pair of dutch boy and girl figurines. Truly a lovely gift, for which Lucille expressed her thanks and admiration. At this annual event, election of officers is held. The following were unanimously elected to their respective offices: Helen Troughton, Pres., Ann Krog, Sec., and Naomi Butzen, treasurer. After a short business session the group climaxed their 1945-46 bowling season by enjoying a delicious chicken dinner. In the fall a meeting will again be held and the date of which will be announced in some future issue of the News Bulletin.

Returns From Navy Opens Dentist Office

Dr. Elmer W. Schuessler, well known in the Palos Park area who published a newspaper, "The Town Crier" in Palos Park about six years ago has opened his dental offices again after serving five years with the Navy.

Dr. Schuessler, a member of the Reserve Corp entered the service in January 1941 and went at once to Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands. His wife and children soon followed and enjoyed about a year living in that lovely country.

On Dec. 7, 1941 Dr. Schuessler, who held the rank of Commander, was on duty at the air station on Ford Island in the center of the Bay at Pearl Harbor. He was at this spot when Japan made her famous attack. Dr. Schuessler was hit by shrapnel in his left leg. He said the attack lasted for about one and a half hours, he being in the midst of it all the time. In spite of his wounds he cared for the many wounded after the attack and is believed to receive the first citation to a dentist in World War II commending him on his rescue efforts.

His family saw the entire "fireworks" from their home on a hill behind the town. They later returned to the United States soon after that fracas.

In addition to his service in the Pacific he was Executive Officer in the Dental department of the Naval Academy at Annapolis for two years. He recently received his honorable discharge from Great Lakes and has located his dental offices at 1608 W. 95th St. His many friends are glad to know of his safe return.

Fly Your Flag On Maritime Day

In proclaiming May 22 as National Maritime Day, President Truman has called upon the people of the United States to observe the occasion by displaying the flag at their homes or other suitable places. He has directed that the flag be flown from all government buildings on that day.

The observance of Maritime Day finds the United States in possession of two thirds of the world's merchant tonnage. This huge fleet has been built since the beginning of world war two. It war time record was almost unbelievable, 8,000 tons of cargo were delivered every hour round the clock, thru out the years of the war. 270,000 officers and men, trained by the U. S. Maritime Service did a creditable job "delivering the goods" that brought victory to the fighting United Nations. 5,636 were killed in enemy action. 581 were taken prisoners of war. 733 American merchant ships were sunk by the enemy.

Daughter Of Pioneer Mokena Family Dies

Mrs. Theresa E. Osman, daughter of the late Elijah McGovney and Catherine C. Van Horn McGovney, early pioneer residents of Mokena died at her home in Joliet Monday.

Mrs. Osman was a second cousin of C. C. Van Horn, who served as Joliet's first mayor for two terms from 1852 to 1854. She was also a cousin of Sir William Van Horn.

When nine years old, Mrs. Osman traveled across the Illinois plains with her family in 1869 when the McGovney's helped to open the Missouri territory. The trip, which took three weeks then and can be made now in one day, was made by covered wagon shortly after her father returned from serving with the Union army in the Civil War. After two years on the Missouri homestead the McGovney family returned to Mokena.

On Jan. 28, 1882, she was married to the late Daniel M. Osman, who preceded her in death 11 years ago. Shortly after their marriage, the Osmans moved to Joliet and they had resided there since. Before her marriage, Mrs. Osman was a milliner.

She is survived by three sons, Roy, Harry, who is executive secretary of the Joliet Housing Authority; and Walter, all of Joliet; one daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Robinson of Denver, Colo., six grandchildren; one great grandchild and three brothers, Walter and Edward McGovney of Mokena, and George of Joliet. Four children preceded Mrs. Osman in death.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday at 3 pm. in the Harris funeral home, with the Rev. W. J. Schuerman, pastor of the Richards Street Methodist church, officiating. Burial was in Elmurst.

Mineral Springs Addition To Mokena Is Flourishing

The Mineral Springs Addition to Mokena, which is being promoted by the Chicago Title and Trust Company of Chicago thru their agent, Mr. Everett Cooper, is having a good response, many are taking advantage and buying the fine lots offered.

The first buyer of land in this new subdivision, was a Mokena man, Mr. George Dath, who purchased two fine lots, corner Center and Hiawatha Streets.

To date eight other Mokena residents have purchased lots and also many out of town people.

This past week Center street has been completed by stoning and widening. All owners on the east side of Center street donated 17 feet additional, making Center street now 50 feet wide.

By the way lots are selling, it appears it will not be long before they will all be sold and as soon as material is released, many new homes will be built.

The Orland Park PTA meeting which was postponed because of the dimout, will be held Friday, May 24 at 8 pm, in the library of the school. The newly elected officers will be installed.

Plans for the school picnic will be made. This will include the year's activities of the PTA under the leadership of Mrs. Clarence Kramer.

The new President, Mrs. Gustie Halahan will take office and make plans for the year's work during the summer. Refreshments will be served. All members are urged to attend as well as all parents of school children and anyone interested in the welfare of the children.

Tractor Stolen From Farmers Yard

A few weeks ago Mr. John Stoll of 73rd and Cicero Ave., bought a new Fordson Tractor, which he had been using on his farm. During the night of Saturday May 4th the tractor was stolen from his farm yard. It was estimated that it was about 2 o'clock in the morning that the stealing took place, and it was done presumably by pushing the tractor from the farm yard and then placing it on a truck and taken away.

When Mr. Stoll discovered his loss in the morning he at once notified the Prairie Farmer Protective Union in Chicago of which he is a member. He gave a good description of the tractor together with its serial number. This information was at once passed on to the police and broadcast by station W. L. S. Last Friday a farmer in St. Joseph, Mich. noticed a Fordson tractor standing along side a road near St. Joseph, and remembering having heard the broadcast of a tractor having been stolen, notified the police who went at once to the place and discovered it to be the lost machine.

The tractor was filled with gasoline when taken and it was empty when found, with indications that it had been used, altho it was in A1 condition. It has been returned to Mr. Stoll who is now using his tractor in his field work, which was set back a week.

It was the efforts of the police and the Protective Union which made it possible to find the stolen machine. The police will continue to investigate this stealing until the guilty party is found and prosecuted.

The Prairie Farmer's Protective Union desires to warn all farmers to keep their machinery under lock, to record the serial number if any; keep all records of identification such as repairs, breakages etc., and if any machine is stolen to report it at once to the Protective Union if a member or not. It is expected that more machinery will be stolen from farmer's yards because of the scarcity of such equipment.

HIGH WIND, HAIL, AND RAIN DAMAGES MOKENA PROPERTY

A storm in all its fury, broke over the Village of Mokena, Wednesday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock and lasted for 15 minutes.

A very dark cloud had been noticed for a short time and everyone was looking for a good rain storm soon. It was but a few minutes after it had started to rain when the wind began to blow, and then hail started to fall. At first the hail was of the usual size but very soon it was noticed that they were of no small common kind, and with the force of a very strong wind, estimated by many as being of 50 to 60 miles per hour, the hail was pelting the windows with all the fury of an angry nature. One could not hear to speak, the noise was so great and soon the streets and yards were covered with hail, in some places to the depth of three inches where the wind had piled it together.

It was impossible for windows to withstand the poundings very long and they began to break in great numbers.

The storm came from the southwest and the windows on the south and west side of buildings were broken.

All the way down Front street, especially in the north side of the street were windows broken in every house or place of business. The taverns of Morry Larson and Richard Muehler were filled with hail and broken glass from the smashed windows. Nearly every window in the upper story of Mrs. Kolber's place were broken. Mrs. Ethel Warning resides there. Also in the Janes apartment and Cooper and Hostert. In the residence of the Smith sisters next to the village hall, the large bay window in their living room was completely broken in, and a grand piano and rugs were soaked.

Several windows in the Christy Sipel flats, the Emil Krapp home and many in the Gunhouse home were all broken and also a window in the front of the H. H. Neff summer home.

At the News-Bulletin office, 32 pages of window glass were broken. The whole front was smashed in, and the members of the force were trying to reinforce the windows but the wind and hail were so great, they had to give it up and run to the rear to prevent the falling glass from striking them. Mrs. Hugh Deadmore did receive several cuts on her fingers. The shop was a sorry looking sight with leaves, hail and water all over the type forms, presses, linotype and composing stones. A large tree between the News-Bulletin shop and the Geo. Knudson residence fell against the latter breaking a window there. Also in the Kellogg, Rinke, Spiess and Weber homes were many windows broken and rain, hail and leaves blown over the rooms.

The windows in the Howard Beagley home were broken and the ceiling in a bedroom fell after it was soaked by the water coming in thru the broken windows.

A large tree fell on the Leon Tonn house and another large tree standing between the Elmer Cooper home and the Krapp flat occupied by the Carl Walters family, fell landing on the front porch and east side of the latter's residence. Another large tree at the corner of the Lutheran church parsonage fell across the telephone cable and electric light wires, which caused the lights and power to be out of commission for several hours, until the Public Service repair men succeeded in restoring the service. A very large tree at the Warnacut home fell in their front yard and many other places were strewn with large tree branches.

The hail was half the size of an egg, and fell so rapidly and with such force that they left large indentation marks on wooden sidings of houses, and many roofs were pounded full of holes which allowed the rain to pour in, soaking the plaster ceilings.

It is estimated that 80 percent of the homes in the village were hit and that about $10,000 worth of damage was done. It was the largest hail storm ever seen in this locality according to some old timers.

Iris and peonies which were blooming were stripped of their flowers and leaves and plants cut off midway of the stalks. Gardens which were partly up were cut and pounded into the ground. Many cherry trees were stripped small green cherries which had all formed.

At the Heiman place, chickens which were in the yard were killed by the pelting hail. Birds were found dead on the ground, not being able to withstand the storm. The roof on the chicken house on the John Martin place, was blown off and the windows broken.

To Hold Bakery Sale

The Friendly Circle of the New Lenox Methodist church will sponsor a bakery sale Saturday afternoon in the Ellis O'Daniel Drug store.

COMPLICATIONS FOR BIG FOUR . . . While the Big Four conference in Paris faces many difficult problems involving treaties and claims and boundaries, the Turkish situation presents future complications. In the dark areas shown are the three buffer states of the Near East and Middle East. Here the strategic and economic interests of Russia and the western powers meet. Control of the Dardanelles is a vital issue and Russia has sought to press claims on Turkey's eastern frontiers. Arrows on the map show how use of the straits cuts 3,000 miles from the supply line to Russia. At the opening sessions the Big Four sidestepped the troublesome Trieste and Italian colonial questions and began the consideration of the Italian-French frontier, the size of Italy's future armed strength and disposal of her surplus shipping. France's proposal to add internationalization of the Ruhr and detachment of the Rhineland from Germany to the agenda, added further complications. British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin caused another upset by insisting that Belgian, Dutch and Luxembourg representatives be permitted to sit in on such negotiations as spokesmen for nations which suffered heavily through German aggression.

Baseball's most valuable players, Phil Cavarretta, Chicago Cubs, left, was chosen as the National league's most valuable player in 1945, and Hal Newhouser, Detroit, won the award for the most valuable player in American league. Soil Plans Should Cover Several Years

Fertilize to Replace Lost Organic Matter

Stressing that there are no "short cuts" to producing high yields on poor, run-down, overcropped land, Prof. A. L. Lang of the agronomy department, University of Illinois, advised farmers to let soil tests guide their soil improvement and fertilizer program.

"When soil tests show strong acidity and a need for limestone, they also indicate a low state of organic matter," he pointed out. "When soils are low in organic matter, they are usually in a state of poor tilth, lack nitrogen and have insufficient water holding capacity. Any amount of mineral fertilizers cannot be expected to economically raise corn and other grain crops yields until the lime, organic matter and nitrogen requirements of the soil are met."

Lang urged farmers to apply limestone, phosphorus and potash fertilizers for the legume sod crops in accordance with the needs of the land as indicated by chemical tests.

Phosphate being mined for inclusion in mixed fertilizer.

Then, he added, grow maximum legume hay crops, either plowing them back into the soil green or as animal manure.

"The best method is to plan a business-like, systematic program or action on the farm that will over a period of years return the land to its native state of high and permanent productivity," Lang stated.

On highly productive soil, mixed fertilizer of the proper grade and properly applied may supply economically a portion of the maintenance rations and in addition give that extra "umph" so often needed during the early stages of growth, he said. Quickly available plant foods applied near the seed of crops at planting time help overcome many external handicaps such as insect damage, weed competition and unfavorable weather conditions, he concluded.

Small Swing Door

Small Swing Door That Provides Easy Access to a Building for Animals.

This swing door provides easy access to any building for small animals. The hinges are bolted to the wall or fence as shown with two bolts each. But before bolting hinges to the wall, they are fastened with two large nails to the door as shown. The type of door would be satisfactory on hog houses during winter months.

Clipping Dairy Cows

Insures Milk Quality

A few minutes spent clipping the cow's belly, udder, flanks and tail will not only save time of brushing and washing them but will greatly reduce the bacteria count, according to tests conducted at Michigan State college.

It was found that the count was two to four times higher in the case of milk from unclipped cows than from those which had been properly clipped.

Farm Doors Opened

By Automatic Control

Many automatic controls are being applied to reduce the man-hours of labor on the farm. One of the newest is an adaption of the proximity control, so sensitive to any object which comes near, it automatically throws a switch to open gates when cows gather before milking time. The Minneapolis-Honeywell device is worked in conjunction with an automatic timer, thus preventing gate opening too soon.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

A FRIEND WHO LEARNED TO BELIEVE

LESSON TEXT—John 11: 7, 8, 16; 20: 24-29.
MEMORY SELECTION—Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.—John 20: 29.

Doubt and faith—both seem to come to the hearts and minds of men. Yet they are directly contradictory to one another and cannot exist together. To believe is to drive out doubt, and when doubt comes in, faith loses its grip.

Thomas, and his experience following the resurrection of our Lord, presents a lesson on what a man can do to meet honest doubt and how such a man can come out into the sunshine of faith.

We find in Thomas, first, an expression of

I. Fearless Loyalty (John 11: 7, 8, 16).

Unafraid of the threats of men, Jesus was about to go once more into Judea. On his last two visits there, the Jews had sought to kill him, namely, at the feast of tabernacles (John 8: 59) and at the feast of dedication (John 10: 31).

He was not one to draw back for the fear of men when the Father's will led him forward in his service to humanity. Lazarus was dead, and Mary and Martha needed him and he was going to them.

Then came a fine expression of the loyalty of Thomas. If his Lord was going to face death, he was willing to go along and die with him. Let us recognize that here was a man of real courage, willing to show his loyalty even by giving his life.

There is something fine about that attitude, and something which shows us that when this man later expressed doubt, it was not the silly and shallow unbelief of a trifler. This man loved the Lord and served him, and yet he failed him.

When we think we are strong, we had better watch out lest we fail. Let us be clear and triumphant in our declaration of loyalty to Christ, both by word and by life. And then let us set a double guard against the enemy of our souls.

Thomas next appears in

II. Faithless Failure (John 16: 24, 25).

He had been willing to die for his Lord, or with him, but now the Lord had been taken by wicked hands and crucified. He and the disciples were alone to face a hostile world; at least so it seemed to them.

The awful day of crucifixion preyed heavily upon the mind of Thomas. That is evident from verse 25. He had been thinking of those awful bleeding wounds, and had forgotten about the promises of resurrection.

Jesus died, and that is a precious truth; but one must not stop there, for a dead Saviour is no Saviour at all. Thomas got sidetracked in his thinking. Let us not make the same mistake.

Another reason for his failure was that he did not go to the meeting of his brethren. Perhaps he did not feel like going, and did not think it was any use to go. Ah, but that's just the time one needs the fellowship of other believers. Go, and you will meet the Lord!

The Lord was there and Thomas missed him. We, too, will miss the Lord and his blessing if we stay away from his house and the meeting of his people.

Having gone thus far in discouraged unbelief, it was easy for Thomas to take the next step and demand physical proof of the resurrection. His despondency had now reached the place of making unreasonable demands and of discrediting the witness of others.

We are glad that we can close our study on the note of renewed faith and of

III. Full Confession (John 16: 26-29).

Note that the Lord was ready fully to meet the demands of Thomas, even though they were on the unreasonable side. That was undoubtedly because he knew the essential fineness and truthfulness of Thomas.

His doubts were unfortunate and entirely unnecessary, but they were genuine. No real doubter will ever remain one long, for if he brings a genuine doubt to the Lord, he will find it fully met. It is the triflers, those who use their doubts to hide their sins, and those who are unwilling to bring their dark thoughts into the light of the presence of Jesus, who go on doubting year after year.

Notice the comment of Jesus following the glad and complete confession of faith by Thomas. It is a good thing to believe because one has seen and been convinced. That is proper and blessed.

But the real fullness of blessing comes to the one who can rise to faith in Christ because of his word, quite apart from the visible or tangible evidence. This is real Christian faith which declares Christ to be our Lord and our God, the one whom having not seen, we love (1 Pet. 1: 8).

CHAPTER I

Far to the West, Doane could trace the highland divides and peaks of the Sierra Nueva, marking the boundary of the state and the San Loreto County line. The ranges had the mirage-like quality of seeming to float, ridge on ridge, upon some upper crystalline stratum of the atmosphere. Low-lying miles of dust haze concealed the massive base of the foothills. Sierra Nueva held for him a strange, magical fascination, as it held for anyone who looked upon it.

But the fascination lay really in the fact that the mountains were real, and not another of the false, shifting desert mirages that formed and faded ceaselessly in other quarters of the compass. Doane could trace the blue-black creases of canyons in the skyline divides. Water ran down those canyons.

In his fevered imagination Doane could hear the life-giving, gurgling music of it. His parched throat cried for its taste.

He resolutely turned his eyes away. The upper ranges he saw so clearly were all of thirty air-line miles away; traveling to them, the distance would be twice that far. Two days' march over the desert for a strong man with plenty of food and water. Doane had neither, and he was no longer strong. The instant his fevered brain forgot that, and his legs turned west, he was gone.

That thought in itself was steady. In the quart canteen at his hip there remained perhaps two full swallows of warm, stale water. He could sometimes hear the faint swish of the infinitely precious stuff within the canteen. Doane was a man of strong will. He knew the utter necessity of holding one thought and determination. He had to hold out for twelve or fifteen hours longer, walking continuously to the south. Perhaps it would take eighteen or twenty hours. He had to make it!

To the south lay the railroad junction of Sand Wells, and the distance could not be more than twenty-five miles now. He should walk two miles an hour, as an average. A strong man went twice that fast. Frequent rest. Doane told himself these things in spasmodic reassurance. At sundown he would drink the rest. The chill of the desert night would help him on.

Uncontrollably his mind began to center on one thing—on the single swallow of brackish water he would allow himself at sundown. One swallow! He could taste it now, feel it run deliciously down his agonized throat, drop by drop. He caught himself pulling at the canteen stopper, in the act of lifting it to his lips. . . . the hour was not yet much past middle afternoon. He cursed himself softly.

Half a mile ahead a little nubbin of rock thrust itself above others on the desert floor. Doane studied it. He measured the distance mentally. Half a mile! A fiftieth of the distance back to Sand Wells. He began to count paces. . . . One, two, three, four, five—nineteen, twenty, twenty-one. . . . fifty-four, fifty-five.

"That's madness!" Doane muttered through his stiff lips. "Get hold of yourself, man!"

His stride became more determined and steady with the hard, driving force of his will behind it. But it seemed that the count would continue in the very beat of his pulse. Miraculously, after a quarter of an hour, the count popped into his brain. . . . one thousand! He must have underestimated the distance, for the rocky nubbin seemed far away again. . . .

He stumbled. Anger at himself flooded through his brain. He pushed himself up, stood there trembling, fists clenched. He was giving fatigued muscles, weary flesh, the upper hand. That sinewy, hard young body of his that had once been so strong was betraying him. . . . No, it wasn't! Doane didn't give up. He had never given up. He glowered in that, as other men did. Doane wouldn't fail. He moved on.

After a while, he stumbled again.

The desert can strike with appalling swiftness.

It was, in fact, less than forty-eight hours earlier that an east-bound train had made the customary halt at the Sand Wells tanks for water. As the train moved on again, four men stepped from the dusk shadows along the track and swung gingerly onto the rear platform of the last car. One moved swiftly through the train until he stood at an entrance four cars ahead. The man who followed on his heels caught the conductor and the brakeman, forcing them into a washroom at the point of his gun. The porters were intimidated as easily as the passengers.

The four rear cars were plundered with a swift efficiency. A haul of feminine jewelry was flung into the bandits' Stetsons; the final checkup of the currency taken totaled better than three thousand dollars. The jewelry estimate ran almost as high.

Two miles out of Sand Wells the emergency cord was pulled, and the train screamed to a sudden halt. The four bandits dropped as suddenly from the coaches and melted into the night.

The alarm, of course, had been swift, and Sand Wells was an isolated point. Railroad detectives closed in on the two ends of the line; possible roads of escape were carefully blocked. Distant city newspapers, next morning, ran lurid accounts of the daring crime. Arrest of the four highwaymen, the papers stated, was momentarily expected. But sheriff Sam Flick, reading the headlines in his office, wasn't as sure as the editors about that.

"Shucks!" he had said, when the alarm reached him at eight o'clock on the evening of the crime. "Shucks! Mighty little use watchin' the roads. All them railroad dicks'll do is to pull half a dozen assorted bums and hoboes off the freights. The outfit that pulled this trick looked farther'n its nose."

Flick sent a hurry call for help to the one man he wanted, above all others, on this job. He sent for Jim Doane. When that lanky, gray-eyed individual sauntered into the office, two hours later, the sheriff of San Loreto County leaped to his feet.

"So here you are, you loafer, you

"I gotta have you on this case."

dad-busted globe-trotter! Hold up your hand! Do you solemnly swear—"

"Wait a minute, wait a minute—No! I don't swear a thing. No! Blame your hide, sheriff, what's eating you? I'm not ready to go to work, least of all on an outfit of wristwatch thieves. Let the railroad round up its own bad men."

"No, but Jim," pleaded the sheriff, "I gotta have you on this case. I know you said six months ago you wasn't going to spend your life hunting down your fellow citizens. You said that when you resigned and went east. But now you're back, and I gotta have help." The sheriff dropped back into his chair.

"Why did this have to happen to me? Sufferin' wildcats, if they'd pulled it a mile down the track, it'd been in the next county. Only just a mile!" He jumped up and paced the floor, fuming, while Doane dropped into a chair. Without warning Flick stopped dead in the middle of the room and shot a question. "You're going to do just one little scout down that end of the county for old Sam, ain't you, Jim? Raise your right hand. Do you solemnly swear—"

Jim Doane leaned back in his chair and laughed heartily. "You know, Sam," he said at length, "if you were a girl and this was leap year, you'd have me bothered. You sure look bothered yourself. Now just supposing I took this case for you, which I'm not saying I will, mind you, what would you want this one-man posse to do? Raise your right hand! Tell papa the truth!"

A broad grin of relief swept over the sheriff's leathery, sunburnt face. He wiped his forehead with an old red bandana. "I knowed you'd stand by the old man, Jim. So I talked with the railroad. They've got a box car over on the siding for you, right now. Get your horse and a spare mount if you want it, an' git aboard. In half an hour the east-bound express'll pick you up.

They'll drop you off at Maxmilla City, off the end of the express, some time before midnight; from there. . . if this division superintendent ain't a liar. . . you get your own engine down over the cut-off to the other straightaway, an' so back to Sand Wells. You ought'a get there by sunup tomorrow."

"You're in a powerful hurry, Sam. What's all the rush?"

Flick stared into empty space for a minute, then turned to his prospective deputy with the expression of a man about to make a clean breast of things. "Shucks! I hate to tell you, Jim. For a fact I do. Truth is, some o' them big Eastern papers is plumb anxious to get my personal opinion on this holdup, an' if I told 'em I'd be a laughin' stock from here to both coasts. The folks around here'd laugh themselves sick."

"What is there in a holdup to laugh at?"

Flick fidgeted. "Fact is, I got a hunch that a girl's had a hand in this job, an' everybody else that knows about it's got the same breed o' hunch. You know, that Alvaro girl. . . Wouldn't that make some juicy copy for them papers, if it turned out to be true? Somethin' like: 'Southwest Sheriff Foiled by Schoolgirl!' That's what they'd say. An' that's what they're all thinkin'. That's why all the rush, Jim Doane."

He ran a warm and trembling finger around his wilted collar. "She's been raisin' Cain, Jim, all the time you been east. Star La Rue was in to see me again about her, just last week. He claims she's run off half his fat beef stock this spring, an' about two-thirds of his calf crop as well. Star's got some good hard-ridin' cowhands himself, but they're just naterly tied to a hole in the ground when it comes to catchin' her."

"Anyhow, one of us is just about forced to pay a visit down there pretty soon, Doane, if only to stuff somethin' in Star La Rue's mouth an' shut him up. That's why I sent for you; you're the only one of that worthless bunch I can count on."

Doane stared at him. "The Alvaro girl! You think the Alvaro girl was mixed up in a train hold-up? Shucks, Sam, I know that kid. I met her at a dance once. She wouldn't dance with me, and I never found out why. But she wouldn't stick up a train. Anyhow, all the passengers say it was four men. Nobody saw any girl. What about that?"

The sheriff answered with a question of his own. "Reckon you've heard mention of the old Rancho de los Tres Hermanos. Mebbe-so, you've heard the name of Senor don Pio Miguel Alvaro himself, in connection, eh?"

"Yeah, sure," drawled Doane. "He was her father. He sold the ranch to La Rue. I know all about that."

"There is some that says old Pio Miguel Alvaro didn't exactly sell to La Rue," said Flick slowly, his eyes glued on Doane's expressionless face. "Them same hints at somethin' else. . . . That La Rue might even 'a stole the place, more or less. Howsomer, that ain't exactly neither here nor there, far's this business is concerned. But I reckon you might as well do some thinkin' 'bout the connection between old grandee Pio Miguel Alvaro, and this here daughter o' his you're goin' after. Also 'bout some o' the things Star La Rue has been right determined to impress on me. Star says she's got some of the old-time vaqueros from Rancho de los Tres Hermanos ridin' with her. If so, they'd be pretty smart saddlemen. Mighty likely be smart in other ways, too. Y'see? Mebbe these isn't going so good with this here Miss Alvaro. Mebbe them riders is back in their wages. Mebbe with the right sort o' brain tellin' 'em just how it ought'a be worked, they might be smart enough to hop the express as it pulls out Sand Wells."

"Yeah, I guess that might happen," Doane replied. "But shucks, sheriff, a rustled herd of stock or two is one thing, if she's sore at Star La Rue about that ranch business, whatever it is, but sticking up a train is something else again. Even if she has a little nerve—"

"A little!" interrupted Flick. "Say, if you think she's some sort o' common spineless Mex, you got another think comin'. The Alvaros were Spanish-Americans, which is as white of skin as you and me, a sight handsomer an' pounds prouder by disposition."

"No matter," replied Doane. "Let's say the girl has nerve and friends. Down there she's known as an Alvaro, which means things. She engineers a job or two o' stock rustlin' from Star La Rue because she's sore he owns the old Alvaro ranch; she gets her friends to do the work, figurin' she can use the head. Then comes the big idea of a full-fledged train robbery. That what you're trying to tell me?"

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

VA Receives Carload Of Mail Daily From Vets

A total of 2,100,000 veterans of World War II are now making premium payments on National Service Life insurance by direct mail to the Veterans administration.

This total does not include premiums paid by deductions from benefit payments.

A total of 897,214 letters concerning insurance were received by the VA through February and March covering all categories of questions such as refunds, conversions, reinstatements and status of accounts, and of this number the VA during the 8 weeks, answered a total of 783,055 of these letters. Because of this tremendous volume of mail there were some 266,000 letters unanswered and because so many thousands of the letters are not accompanied by proper identification, it has been impossible to post accounts currently.

Questions and Answers

Q. I was inducted into the army in 1942 and was discharged 2 months and 12 days later on a disability discharge. I have tried to get compensation, but the VA claims it has been delayed because of insufficient records. I then filed a claim for such to clear my records. In 1939, prior to my induction I had internal hemorrhages from both kidneys, but I was passed as physically fit in 1941 by army doctors. On entering service my kidneys were weakened more by hurting them again for which I was discharged. Now the question is, am I entitled to this compensation? I signed up on the 14th of January and have been out of work 3 months.—J. D. C., Superior, Wis.

A. Cannot tell from your letter whether you are attempting to get a disability pension or unemployment compensation. From the facts given, you may be entitled to disability compensation and your only recourse is to apply again or take an appeal. As for readjustment allowance, are you able to work? The laws says you must be able to work and available for suitable work; that you must not have left suitable work voluntarily and without good cause and you must have applied for suitable work. Suggest you ask the USES office for all details.

Q. How old will they take a man in the occupation army? A man in service 10 months, how can he draw this $20 per week?—J. D., Corydon, Ind.

A. Enlistment age limits are 17 through 34. If you are unemployed and were discharged under conditions other than dishonorable you can apply for unemployment compensation at your nearest office of U. S. Employment service and you may obtain up to $20 per week, for not more than 52 weeks under certain conditions.

Q. I was discharged from ASF regional hospital, Ft. McClellan, Ala., November 6, 1945, with a disability discharge on account of back trouble and I want to know if I can get into the merchant marines. Was only in the army two months and the disability was not from service.—C. V. R., Charlottesville, Va.

A. Suggest your best answer can be obtained by applying to the nearest merchant marines recruiting office and see if they will take you.

Q. I am a veteran of World War I in service six months, not overseas. Just ready to go when Armistice was signed. Could I get hospital service free? Also do all war veterans get a pension after they are 60 or 65 years old?—F. S., Pocatonia, Ill.

A. You probably are eligible for hospital service free if you are unable to pay for it. World War I veterans obtained a bonus. There is no pension.

Q. My son will be in the navy two years in June. He is a storekeeper 3/c and was overseas 19 months. Could you tell me when he will be eligible for discharge?—Mrs. B. R., Milton, Pa.

A. Ordinarily he likely would be eligible to apply for discharge by June 30. However, he may be held up for a short time since storekeepers and some other classifications rate a higher point score.

Q. My husband has an honorable discharge since December 7, 1945. How does the G.I. Bill work? We would like to have $2,000. How much interest does it take and how do we pay it back? We are planning to build a home, since they are hard to rent.—A Good Reader, Union, Mo.

A. Would suggest your husband go to a bank or other lending institution which makes G.I. loans and they will give him all details and inform him as to his eligibility since in the final analysis, the bank must approve the loan. The loan carries 4 per cent interest.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To shorten a belt, mark the correct length and remove the extra amount from the buckle end.

Allow the electric iron to cool after use and remove any starch with soap and a damp cloth.

Moths will not remain in rugs which are sponged at intervals with hot water to which a little vinegar has been added.

Double windows and doors should be stored in a dry place. Dampness will cause them to warp, and much planing and refitting will be necessary when reinstalled in the autumn.

When best linens get worn, cut around weak areas and insert crocheted motifs in other spots. They'll look as if they were intended so.

How to CHANGE A TIRE AT NIGHT...

More Quickly—
More Safely!

1 Few motorists can change a tire at night with top speed, efficiency—and safety! Night tire-changing can be hazardous—but "Eveready" flashlights can reduce the danger. First principle, says the American Automobile Assn., is...

2 Park off the highway if you can possibly do so. Next best place is on a straight stretch of road. If you must park on a curve, a light should be set on the road some distance back. Be sure neither you nor a bystander blocks off the view of your tail-light!

3 Keep all your tire-changing tools tied or boxed together, where you can pick them up without searching. Remove your spare before jacking up car; removing it later might push car off jack. If alone, set flashlight on a stone in convenient position.

4 In your car or at home—wherever you need a flashlight—rely only on "Eveready" batteries. Ask for them by name. For "Eveready" batteries have no equals... that's why you'll find them in more flashlights than any other battery in the world!

Pure Oil, Gas and Motor OilsOur dealers join us in making this frank report to THE FARMERS OF AMERICA

INTERNATIONAL Harvester is getting back into production with all possible speed. Extra shifts are being employed wherever conditions permit, to try to overcome the production losses of the recent strike. Everything is being done to get parts and machines to you.

While we and our dealers would like to tell you that this means an immediate end to the shortage of service parts and machines, it is more accurate to say that it means the beginning of the end of it. If illness or bad weather delays you seriously in the Spring, you know how much it throws you off your schedule. The strike has thrown our schedules off balance, too. There are many "chores" we must do before new machines reach you.

Material shortages

The preliminary chores of getting our plants back in to shape for full production are finished. But disturbances in other industries and resulting material shortages may affect our plans. Light gauge steel sheets, brass and copper, fractional horse power motors, and many other items are all very short. The coal situation may also prove serious—we hope not.

Refilling the well

Both our dealers and our branches have run dry on parts and new machines. So the biggest chore is to get their working stocks back to normal. It will take time to fill the pipeline to dealers—just as it takes time for you to refill a well or cistern after it has run dry.

Stock and display rooms of our dealers represent not one, but ten thousand reservoirs which must be refilled. The most heroic production efforts will mean that your local dealer can expect only a small number of parts and machines at a time. Since we must play fair with all our customers, there will be a sprinkle of parts and machines all over the country—not a downpour in any one section.

You will be glad to know that all repair parts production schedules are far beyond normal.

No hoarding

You may be sure that every machine will be shipped to dealers as soon as completed. We do not and will not hold machines off the market.

At the start of the strike we had on hand at all our factories and branches just 837 tractors of all kinds—less than two days' production—and 405 of these were not completed. Many of those on hand had one or more important parts missing—principally radiator cores. Most of the rest represented the normal daily "float" between the end of the assembly line and the shipping platform. Naturally no tractors were made during the strike.

What dealers may have for you

We can report to you that our current production on TRACTORS is good and we are shipping at a normal rate. Even so, there will not be enough to go around. The situation on PLOWS and DISK HARROWS is reasonably good. On COMBINES, MOWERS, HAY RAKES, ONE-MAN HAY BALERS, CORN PICKERS and many other items, our schedules have been seriously disrupted. We must in fairness say that many of our customers are likely to be disappointed on delivery of these machines. On MILKING MACHINES, STATIONARY ENGINES, and some other small units we are hopeful of making practically normal delivery.

We know you will understand the reasons why your dealer cannot fill your orders overnight. He would like to give you the kind of delivery on machines you would like to get, but his situation is a difficult one and not of his own making. He is doing the best he can.

No cutting corners on quality

There is one thing you can be absolutely certain about: We will NOT cut corners on quality in order to increase production in this emergency. For years we have said: "QUALITY IS THE FOUNDATION OF OUR BUSINESS." Today we say it—and mean it—as much as ever.

We know you need new machines—and need them badly. But we believe it will pay you to wait just a little while longer if you cannot get all you want immediately. By waiting you can be sure your new equipment will have the quality so rightly associated with INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER for so many years.

Farmers To Report Damaged Wheat Crop

Mr. Byron Gaskill, Chairman of the Will County AAA committee has received a message from John F. Bicket Illinois State Director, of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, urging and requesting farmers who have Federal Wheat Crop Insurance and whose crops have been damaged by the recent fly infestation, to report the damage to the local county AAA office and to ask for an inspection of the crop. The crop should not be torn up until a representative of the Corporation has inspected the acreage and released it for the growing of another crop.

"The damage to the wheat crop in our county seems rather spotted" Mr. Gaskill stated.

This company was glad to join with the Illinois Commerce Commission in removing the major restrictions on the use of electric energy which have been in force during this critical period.

We wish it known, however, that such relaxation could not have been accomplished, in spite of the temporary coal-producing period agreed to May 10, had it not been for the savings in coal already made through the whole-hearted cooperation given by all industry, commercial business, residential and other customers.

We also wish to express our appreciation for the continued support by the Illinois Commerce Commission, Governor Green, all of the officials of the communities we serve, the press and radio.

We urge the continued voluntary effort of the public to keep the use of electricity at a reasonable minimum. If an early settlement of the coal controversy is reached, we believe the territory we serve can be supplied through the emergency without further restrictions.

Dance Treatments
Many crippled people can dance easily and smoothly even though they walk with a decided limp. Dancing is being used in treating disabled veterans as well as people suffering from mental shock.

Emergency Actions Are Usually Costly

Plan

Your Own Mausoleum, Now!

When purchases are made well in advance of need, time is provided for deliberate consideration of values. You have probably had the experience of building or buying a home. It took some time for you to satisfy yourself concerning location, plan and materials. You used established channels for determining the responsibility of the real estate agency, the contractor, the supply houses and others with whom you dealt. You were in position to make comparisons with other homes in order to satisfy yourself with the value of your contemplated investment.

Emergencies have a way of happening at inopportune times. There is all too often a necessity for making complete arrangements for a funeral and interment on a week end or holiday when banks and other usual places for obtaining facts on important purchases are closed. Under these conditions and because we don't know just what to do, we place our situation completely in the hands of others. All we do is pay the bill.

Whatever your decision may be concerning these eventual circumstances, you will effect a saving in cost if action is taken now. Such action will be immeasurably appreciated by those on whom responsibility would otherwise fall.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 12, was:

"ADAM AND FALLEN MAN"

The Golden Text was:

"As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive" (I Cor. 15: 22).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:

"And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness . . . So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them . . . Have we not all one father? hath not one God created us? . . . Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect" (Gen. 1, Mal. 2, Matt. 5).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"If man was once perfect but has now lost his perfection, then mortals have never beheld in man the reflex image of God. The lost image is no image. The true likeness cannot be lost in divine reflection. . . . God is the creator of man, and the divine Principle of man remaining perfect, the divine idea or reflection, man, remains perfect . . . The relations of God and man, divine Principle and idea, are indestructible in Science; and Science knows no lapse from nor return to harmony, but holds the divine order or spiritual law, in which God, and all that He creates are perfect and eternal, to have remained unchanged in its eternal history." (pp. 259, 470).

THE HOUSE THAT ROCK ISLAND
BUILT....

Sooner!

Three million homes wanted . . . right now! That's a big order, even for a nation like ours, that gets things done in a hurry. In addition to new homes, thousands of folks are planning to remodel their present homes . . . to install new bathrooms, new lighting systems, model kitchens . . . with all the labor-saving appliances they've been reading about and saving for.

It's a tremendous challenge—to the building trades who are hampered by labor shortages, to manufacturers and mills where many materials are still critically scarce. A challenge also to rail transportation, which links supplier and builder together . . . because only the railroads are equipped to handle the tons of steel, brick, lumber, appliances, and countless other items used in the building program.

Serving this community, ROCK ISLAND stands ready with the manpower, the equipment, and the "know-how" to deliver those needed building materials on time to your contractor. Rely on ROCK ISLAND to have your house built . . . sooner!

THE ROAD OF PLANNED PROGRESS

In These United States

Fetching Home Wild Bacon Arizona's Popular Sport

TUCSON, ARIZ.—Many of Arizona's hunters had a big season hunting wild pigs during the winter months just past, for the season was extended to 59 days by the state game and fish commission, the reason being that the javelina or peccary have been increasing rapidly in the last few years.

The Arizona species of the animal is one of two varieties of pig-like animals ranging from Arizona and Texas to Paraguay. Some are slightly grizzled and have an indistinct white collar and are often called the collared peccary. The Arizona wildhog is often called the "couchajavalin." They are nocturnal and gregarious, says the dictionary.

But it's a great sport in these parts, where the javelina is well scattered. They are found in rock country on the edge of the desert around Tucson, and in mountain canyons which abound here. The animals usually run in small packs, are considered big game in this state, and as such may not be hunted with dogs.

May Use Bow and Arrow.

The law specifies that the limit is one animal of either sex per hunter for the season, and must be taken by a rifle fired from the shoulder and propelling a center-fire cartridge, or by bow and arrow provided the bow used has a pull of 50 pounds or more and the arrow is broadhead of one inch or more in width.

All of which regulations hunters are glad to adhere to so they can be sure of carrying their animals home to the range — cooking range — for the wild pig is mighty fine eatin', mighty fine! say Arizonans, including the Indian and Mexican hunters.

TAMED . . . Here is a couchajavalin from the wilds of Mexico. This wild boar was tamed by L. C. James of Tucson and adopted as a pet. Henrietta Lampra is shown holding it at the Bismarck hotel in Tucson.

Thickest Head Wins Contest

FITCHBURG, MASS.—It seems, said the Fitchburg police, that a gentleman from Ashby and a boilermaker—not otherwise identified—engaged in a dispute over the relative thickness of their respective skulls.

To settle the dispute, police added, they withdrew to opposite ends of a 30-foot room, then ran toward each other, crashing head-on. It was sensational.

Apparently the Ashby man lost, for he required five stitches in his scalp. But he left the hospital after a few hours under his own power.

And that's what hard-headed citizens do when they meet in a tavern.

Glad He's Not Too Spry

PLACERVILLE, CALIF.—In his younger days, C. W. Donaldson of Bear Creek might have covered that last four feet in time—to be killed! Donaldson had brought home 30 sticks of powder to use in his mining operations and had left them in the back seat of his sedan. The next morning he performed his usual ablutions and face barbering when he noted smoke curling from the back of his car.

Four feet short of the car with a bucket of water and the powder went off, knocking him unconscious and shattering the car.

It is thought that the sun shining through the glass had exploded the dynamite.

Donaldson received a black eye, a few cuts — and a demolished automobile. His reflection is that dynamite and mules have been considered unpredictable.

Firestone Announces

THE SAFEST AND LONGEST WEARING TIRE EVER BUILT

UP TO 55% STRONGER

New Rayon Cord Safti-Sured Body* Gives Extra Protection Against Blowouts

UP TO 60% MORE NON-SKID ANGLES

New Safti-Grip Tread Provides Extra Protection Against Skidding

UP TO 32% LONGER MILEAGE . . .

Wear-Resistant Vitamic Rubber in both the Tread and the Cord Body Assures Extra Protection Against Weather and Wear

INSTEAD of merely substituting a rayon cord body for cotton cord in a previous tire design, Firestone especially engineered this tire to take full advantage of the extra strength of rayon. As a result, Firestone research has created a revolutionary new tire, tested and proved by millions of miles of service — a tire that's new in design, new in materials, new in performance — YET IT SELLS AT REGULAR PRICE. See this new Firestone De Luxe Champion Tire at your nearby Firestone Dealer Store or Firestone Store TODAY!

*Rayon cord bodies in size 6.50 and larger, extra strong cotton cord bodies in smaller sizes until more Rayon is available.

HERE'S WHY THE NEW FIRESTONE DELUXE CHAMPION STAYS SAFER LONGER

Rayon fibers are locked together by the Firestone Safti-Lock process, then Gum-Dipped and calendered with Vitamic Rubber. Safti-Sured Construction welds all parts of the tire into an inseparable unit for EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS.

The new Safti-Grip Tread has up to 60% more non-skid angles for EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING.

New, wider, flatter, silent Safti-Grip tread and large area in contact with the road mean slow, even wear. Precision balance and uniform flexing mean less internal heat. These features assure EXTRA MILEAGE.
